

Channel:

This allows you to select a channel from the channels list.

Channel information:

This allows you to specify channel-specific information such as the emission wavelength, the excitation wavelength and the exposure time.